Gert & Uwe Tobias

16 April – 14 June 2013, Gallery 1

Born in Transylvania, identical twins Gert and Uwe Tobias paint, sculpt, make traditional woodcut prints and draw with a typewriter. Working together since 2001, when in their studio they often finish each other's work, picking up where the other left off, so their art often evolves from the deeply shared understanding that twins sometimes develop. Their work is full of strange faces and creatures drawn from eastern European folk art which is combined with the influences of Russian abstract art from the early 20th century. The artists' large woodcut prints, collages and wall paintings of vibrant, jewel-like colours are part of a site-specific installation specially conceived for the Gallery.

2013: The Spirit of Utopia

4 July – 5 September 2013, Galleries 1, 8, Victor Petitgas Gallery (Gallery 9), Outset Project Gallery (Gallery 5) & 176/Zabludowicz Collection Project Gallery (Gallery 6)

A group show exploring the role of art in imagining the future. With a focus on social organisation, alternative economies and the environment, the exhibition presents artists who act as agents of change in the world. Including new commissions and recent artistic developments, the Gallery presents work by artists, architects and designers including Yto Barrada, Peter Liversidge and Pedro Reyes and collectives Time/Bank and Wayward Plants.

The exhibition has been conceived jointly by Iwona Blazwick, Daniel F. Herrmann, Kirsty Ogg, Sofia Victorino and Nayia Yiakoumaki.

Sarah Lucas

2 October – 15 December 2013, Galleries 1, 8 & Victor Petitgas Gallery (Gallery 9)

One of Britain's leading sculptors, the Gallery presents a new exhibition of Sarah Lucas in a tailor-made commission for the Whitechapel Gallery. Her witty works use inanimate objects to take the shape of bodies, whether the table-top Two Fried Eggs and a Kebab (1992) or Au Naturel (1994) which sees a mattress where fruit, vegetables and a bucket become a readymade portrait of a couple in bed. This is the first major solo exhibition in London of Sarah Lucas's work and assesses the vital role she plays in British art, sculpture and feminism, with iconic works including Unknown Soldier (2003) and the Bunny series and presents new works specially made for the show.

The Bloomberg Commission: Giuseppe Penone

5 September 2012 - August 2013, Gallery 2

Over the past 45 years, Italian artist Giuseppe Penone has examined our relationship to nature. For the latest Bloomberg Commission, the Whitechapel Gallery displays a twelve metre bronze cast of a tree, with a radiant gold-leaf interior, spreading across the columned gallery. The tree is carefully balanced on its branches and divided into sections to allow visitors to move between the separate elements. The work contrasts with the urban environment surrounding the Gallery, highlighting hidden nature within the city. The installation is accompanied by talks and events exploring the rich relationship between nature and the city.

Supported by Bloomberg. Additional support provided by the Wingate Scholarships. Giuseppe Penone Exhibition Circle: Aishti Foundation, Aud and Paolo Cuniberti. Catalogue supported by Haunch of Venison and Marian Goodman Gallery.
