COMMISSION

Nalini Malani: Can You Hear Me?

23 September 2020 – 6 June 2021

Gallery 2

Free Entry

Whitechapel Gallery unveils a major new work titled Can You Hear Me? by Nalini Malani (b. 1946 Karachi, Undivided India; lives and works in Mumbai, India) as part of its prestigious annual programme of artist commissions.

Embodying the role of the artist as social activist, Malani gives voice to the marginalised through visual stories which often take the form of multi-layered, immersive installations, exploring themes of violence, feminism, politics, racial tensions and social inequality. Widely considered the pioneer of video art in India, Malani has a 50-year multimedia practice that includes film, photography, painting, wall drawing, erasure performance, theatre, animation and video.

Can You Hear Me?, the artist's first UK commission, comprises 84 animations projected on the walls of the Whitechapel Gallery's historic interior. Made between 2017 and 2020, they feature overlapping hand-drawn images and notes, as well as fragments of quoted text. In this installation Malani once more fills the former central reading room of the Whitechapel Public Library with books, transcribing quotes by influential writers such as Hannah Arendt, James Baldwin, Bertolt Brecht, Veena Das, Faiz Ahmad Faiz, Milan Kundera, George Orwell and Wislawa Szymborska. This 21st century form of the artist notebook is projected directly onto the gallery's brick walls with text and image taking the form of moving graffiti.

Curated by Emily Butler, Mahera and Mohammad Abu Ghazaleh Curator, Whitechapel Gallery, with Inês Costa, Curatorial Assistant, Whitechapel Gallery.

Accompanied by a fully-illustrated catalogue.

MAJOR EXHIBITION

Kai Althoff goes with Bernard Leach

7 October 2020 – 10 January 2021

Galleries 1, 8 & 9

Free Entry

Whitechapel Gallery presents the first major UK survey of figurative painter and creator of poetic mise-en-scenes, Kai Althoff (b. 1966 Cologne, Germany; lives and works in New York, USA and Cologne, Germany). The exhibition brings together approximately 90 works spanning Althoff's career, from childhood drawings and photographs to textiles, sculptural installations and new paintings. Read a description of the exhibition from the artist here.

Althoff draws on a wide range of literary, cultural and artistic influences in his work and, for this exhibition at the Whitechapel Gallery, he pays tribute to British potter Bernard Leach (1887–1979). The exhibition features more than 40 of Leach's ceramic vessels and tiles from the 1920s onwards, selected by Althoff from UK collections and displayed in vitrines designed by the artist. The exhibition takes place in the centenary year of the Leach Pottery in St Ives, founded in 1920 and considered the birthplace of British studio pottery.

ARCHIVE

Exercising Freedom: Encounters with Art, Artists and Communities

7 October 2020 – 21 March 2021

Gallery 4

Free entry

By the mid-1970s the cultural mosaic of East London changed significantly as local artists found themselves living and working alongside local communities, who provided an invigorating environment rich in ideas, possibilities and resources. This archive exhibition focuses on the Whitechapel Gallery's community education programme from 1979 to 1989, exploring the role that art plays in society. The display highlights how artists play a part in developing participatory and educational activities and features interviews with key figures, whose involvement helped to cement the Gallery's pioneering ethos and vision in art and education, including Zarina Bhimji (b. 1963, Mbarara, Uganda), Fran Cottell (b. Kent, UK), Charlie Hooker (b. 1953, London, UK), Denise Jones, Rob Kessler (b. 1951, Solihull, UK) and Jenni Lomax, Community Education Organiser at the time.

Documents, pamphlets, posters, photographs, tape slides, film and audio recordings drawn from the gallery's extensive archive will be presented for the first time to the public, alongside material from personal archives.

Co-curated by Jenni Lomax, Director, Camden Arts Centre, 1990-2017; Sofia Victorino, Director of Education and Public Programmes, Whitechapel Gallery and Nayia Yiakoumaki, Head of Curatorial Studies, Whitechapel Gallery.

PROJECT

Duchamp & Sons selects from the Hiscox collection

25 August 2020 - 3 January 2021

Galleries 5&6

Free Entry

Considering the ways in which lockdown has affected experiences of art and culture, Whitechapel Gallery's Youth Forum, Duchamp & Sons, presents a virtually curated display featuring artworks drawn from the Hiscox Collection.

What role might art play when our freedom is interrupted? What does it mean to curate from our laptops and screens? Can confinement trigger new creative processes and networks of solidarity?

In searching for ways to stay connected, the Youth Forum's display explores ideas of home and asks what makes a community.

Curated by Duchamp & Sons with Renee Odjidja, Swarovski Foundation Curator for Youth and Community Programmes, Whitechapel Gallery and Sofia Victorino, Director of Education and Public Programmes, Whitechapel Gallery.
