The Whitechapel

9 March - 10 April

Open Exhibition 1983

This exhibition has been selected from over 2000 works entered in this year's submission. It was yet another record entry — dramatically increased from last year's 1500 works — and this is reflected to some degree by the proportionately greater number of works exhibited.

We are particularly pleased to be able to show some of the visible results of the Gallery's successful Artists-in-Schools programme. The artists involved this year, Rose Garrard, Jean-Luc Vilmouth and Elizabeth White, are all showing their own work, together with work produced by students and schoolchildren from their placements. Other school and college projects, and work from Tower Hamlets Adult Education classes, is displayed side by side with the widest range of creative work shown in an Open Exhibition for many years.

We are grateful to Barclays Bank for renewing their financial support for this important event in the East London exhibition calendar, and to the Arts Council, GLC, London Borough of Tower Hamlets and GLAA, which support both the general and educational programmes at the Gallery. May we also thank William Doyle and his staff at the Bishopsgate Institute, where work was stored during preparations for the exhibition.
